

ABOUT IMPLANTS

IMPLANTS LAST A LIFETIME

Implants usually last a lifetime and are worth the expense as it is a solution that is lasting.

The procedure is usually done in two stages:

A titanium implant is surgically inserted into the jawbone and the gum surface closed with sutures. Two to six months later, after the jawbone has fused to the implant, a metal post (abutment) is screwed into the implant so that it projects from the gums. Onto this, your dentist can mold and attach a permanent crown.

FINANCING AVAILABLE

Financing available through Medifin:

For R20 000 implant. Repayment over 36 months at R754/month. T&C's apply.

These figures are based on the placement of a basic implant. There are many variables, e.g.: the amount of bone available, the situation in your mouth, the make of implant, the type of temporary restoration while healing takes place, etc.

Best is to come in for a consultation and x-rays. (R700.00) We can then discuss your specific situation. There might be other options that patients are not aware of. These might be less invasive and less costly.
